Community Chest Contributions Top $20,000 in Record Drive

More than $20,259 has now been turned over to the Albuquerque Community Chest in the form of pledges and cash contributions from Sandia Corporation and its employees. The amount is more than twice the total raised last year.

Included in the amount collected so far is $250.00 contributed by the Anderson Dunham Company, Coronado Club concessionaire. Sandia Corporation contributed a corporate gift of $3,200 and the remaining $16,700 was contributed by individual employees.

When the cards still out have been turned in it is expected that 90% of all employees will have contributed. The average contribution this year was $5.25, an increase of more than $1.00 over last year.

Committee Chairman, Frank L. Dewey, said that the success of the campaign was due largely to the splendid cooperation of the nearly 600 solicitors and squad leaders who completed the bulk of their work in the first two days of the drive. On page 5 is a list of the squad leaders and solicitors who made this year's outstanding record possible. The Committee recognized the fact that this list is incomplete in that some solicitors were compelled to turn over their work to other volunteers because of absence or illness.

Charlie Will Help Make Your Carlsbad Trip More Pleasant

Ex-Marine Sergeant Charlie Grey, who is also an ex-Sandian, has retired after a full and active life in the Corps and in American industry, and is now a resident of Carlsbad, N.M. Charlie, who was in 2232, has become perturbed at the number of Sandia Corporation employees who make a trip to the Carlsbad Caverns and then have to spend the night in their car because they failed to make reservations at a hotel or tourist court.

Charlie writes, "I am starting a personal reservation service and would like to extend it to all my old co-workers in the Corporation. Without charge to them I will make overnight reservations for their visits to the Carlsbad Caverns in a hotel or tourist court of their choice or my recommendation.

His address: Charlie Grey, M/Sgt., USMC, Retd., 1005 North Edward, Carlsbad, N.M.

And to you, Charlie, we extend our thanks.

New Parking Lot Places 500 Cars Near Tech Area

A new parking lot on the north edge of the Tech Area is now in use and next week another gate into the area will be opened nearby. The new gate will enter via the second street east of the street leading to the present North Gate and will provide a handy entrance for the passengers of the approximately 500 cars which will be accommodated in the lot.

Effective next week parking regulations in the area west of the Administration Building will be enforced. This means parallel parking along curbs and driving automobiles over curbs will be prohibited.

Hunting Guide Popular; Fix-It Booklet Issued

If the "take" on the booklet "Let's Go Hunting" is any indication, there will be more hunters than game in the hills this fall. The booklets were going like hotcakes this week, but Employee Services Department has an adequate supply and is trying to keep all racks filled.

A new book in the Sandia Corporation Booklet Service Rack is "Fix It This Way!" Prepared for our Booklet Rack Service by Brevity, Inc., the little book is a veritable pocket encyclopedia of tips on how to make minor home repairs, how to care for tools, and how to do dozens of little chores which are simple if you know how.

You won't have to thumb through the entire booklet to find what you're looking for — there's a handy index on the back cover.

Early next week Sandians will get a look at a clever cartoon-illustrated booklet entitled "Bet You Didn't Know!" It is a collection of little known facts about Western Electric and the Bell System.

Did you know, for example, that in some dial systems between the time you dial a number and say "hello" some 10,000 contacts are closed and opened to connect you to the right line?

Would you have guessed that the average steel cable reel — the kind with "Western Electric" on it which you see so often — travels nearly 69,000 miles during its life span? They are used over and over again for about 12 years each.

Dr. Powell Joins Corporation Medical Director's Staff

Dr. Ralph C. Powell has joined the medical staff of the Corporation and is devoting his full time to working with the medical director. Dr. Powell, a native of Maine, comes to Albuquerque from New Harbor in that state. He served two years with the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army and for the past two years has been engaged in private practice.

Born in Orono, Me., he attended the University of Maine and also Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia.

Dr. Powell, his wife Virginia and three children, Geoffrey, 5, Nancy, 3, and Peter, 1, live in Albuquerque.

Ham radio operators on the Base will be pleased to learn that Dr. Powell is a radio fan and back in Maine operated with the call letters of W1IXE. He received his license when he was 12 years old. He relates that he was in bed with a broken leg, arm and collar bone and had trouble entertaining himself. Some friends gave him a few radio parts and another amateur radio fan was born.

Four Plays to Be Presented on Base

All University Rodey theatre plays will be presented on Sandia Base this year. After their runs on the Campus are completed they will be given in the Base theatre.

The first play, "Liliom," will be Nov. 3. Sponsoring the plays here is the Sandia Base Women's Club and tickets are being sold by a committee from the club. Ann Hosey is in charge of the sales and may be reached on ext. 25289.

The other plays will be presented Dec. 15, March 29 and May 17. Season tickets are $3.

Leading Lady in Little Theatre Plays Modest About Her Stage Performances

Margaret Wetzel, 2464, who recently played the leading feminine role opposite Victor Izay in Albuquerque Little Theatre's "Darkness at Noon," says she just "doesn't have what it takes" to make a career of acting.

However, Margaret has quite a record in show business. Most of her acting has been done with the

Margaret Wetzel

Little Theatre. She has appeared as understudy to the actress playing Billy Dawn in "Born Yesterday" which featured Lon Chaney, Jr.

Acted with Chagney

She has played supporting roles, mostly comedy parts, in "Lady in the Dark," "The Women," "My Sister Eileen," "The Other Woman" — this time with Jeanne Cagney — and "For Love or Money," and these are just a few.

Margaret received training at high school in her native town of Tulsa, Okla., where the speech department was "superior." Then she went to business college in order to make some grocery money.

From Tulsa Margaret moved to Albuquerque in 1938 and has had various assignments including make-up, costuming, props, painting scenery with the Little Theatre since 1939. At one time she was director of an adult group at the high school, producer of a one-act play.

Jimmy Helped

Mrs. Wetzel, a Corporation employee for three and a half years, says she owes most of her theatrical experience to the Jimmy O'Connors of the Albuquerque Little Theatre. Mrs. O'Connor is director and Mr. O'Connor is stage manager.

Although Margaret is not cast in the Albuquerque group's next production, a comedy, "As Husbands Go," she will be behind the scenes helping to make the show a success.

How did Margaret become interested in theater work? "Like so many children I always had a crush on the movies and theater, and so here I am a spare time actor."

Members Induct New Officers of A.I.E.E.

Officers were inducted at a recent dinner meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. It was the first meeting of the season.

Featured at the gathering was a talk by A. M. Garblik, 1270, on "Some Aspects of Linear Servo Systems."

Included in those who were inducted were: Don Taylor, 1242, chairman; Curt Biggs, 2122, vice-chairman; Michael Favia, 1270, secretary-treasurer; Karl Zimmerman, 2112-1, program chairman; Earl Craven, 2133, arrangements chairman; and Gordon Harvey, 1213, technical program chairman.

Sandia Youngsters Win High Honors With Model Planes

Two Sandia Base youngsters ran off with the laurels at the recent State Fair model plane speed competition. The blue ribbon and $5 were awarded to 11-year-old Dennis B. Sparger, Jr., who had his little model zooming around at 62.9 miles per hour.

The second prize and $3 were won by David Hahn, 13, who clocked his model at 48.4 miles per hour.

Both boys assembled and painted their own planes. They each used a Torpedo 19 motor to power the little crafts. They are controlled in flight by a 50-foot long piano wire. Each has a wing-spread of 34 inches.

Dennis used a Testers Freshman model weighing about a pound. David's model, Testers Junior, is about half a pound heavier. David's father, Harry, works in 2123, and his mother, Geraldine, is in 2416. Dennis' parents also work here, his father in 2233 and his mother, Mary Emma, in 2461.

Surprisingly the young winner had only about six weeks of experience with powered model planes before he entered the contest. Motorless planes had been his hobby for about four years. He came to Sandia with his parents four years ago from Oak Ridge.

David has a year's experience with model plane motors and the regular type has been his hobby for seven years. He came to Sandia from Detroit with his parents and an older brother and sister.

It was the first model plane contest either boy had ever entered.

Male Glee Club Will Be Formed

The formation of a male glee club is underway, Terry Riggan, 1243, has reported. The singers will meet every Monday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Coronado Club.

Singers with previous glee club experience are in special demand, but anyone interested in singing, even those without vocal training, are invited to attend rehearsals. Membership will be open to all men employed on Sandia Base.

Terry Riggan will direct the glee club. Terry served for seven years as director of the Martinnaires, a chorus sponsored by the Glenn L. Martin Company of Baltimore.

Applications can be made by contacting C. F. Robinson, 1243, at ext. 7259, or Terry at ext. 24243.

Magicians Display New Accomplishments

Something new will be added to the mysterious lore of Magicians Club members at their next meeting to be held at the Franciscan Hotel, 8 p. m., next Friday.

An original bit of magic, learned within the past month, must be performed by each member of the group, according to Leland Sangster, 1134, president. It is required, he added, that this new trick be gleaned from an issue of the national magician's magazine, The Linking Ring, published during the past 12 months.

Future meetings of the group will be held on the first Friday of each month at the Franciscan Hotel, Leland announced.

Call for Sig Eps

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Sigma Phi Epsilon, national social fraternity, will be celebrated at the Hilton Hotel next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Former members are urged to contact Barney Meyer, 2132, at ext. 33137.

A JOB WELL DONE is recognized by the Albuquerque Community Chest and Bob Hawk, left, and Frank Dewey are taken into the Tribe of the Red Feather by boys from the Albuquerque Indian School. Bob Hawk was one of the members of the committee headed by Frank Dewey which planned the program for Sandia.

We Take Stock, Find We Are Wanting

The cry for a moral rearmament is becoming stronger day by day. Americans are taking a good look at themselves and are finding that something is missing. That something is the honesty, integrity and trustworthiness which has always been the trade mark of a good citizen.

It is discouraging to look at ourselves and see that we are guilty of misconduct. But it is true, and the degree and extent of our bad behavior have grown by an alarming degree in the past few years. The newspapers today are carrying the sordid tale of how many of us have sold our souls. Everything from pilferage of pillow cases at army posts to embezzlements of millions from banks is being related in the news columns.

We read of buying influence, cheating on income tax returns, drug addiction, illegal gambling, evasion of the draft, bank robberies, crimes of violence, cheating, graft, purchase of protection, blackmail and every-day common thievery.

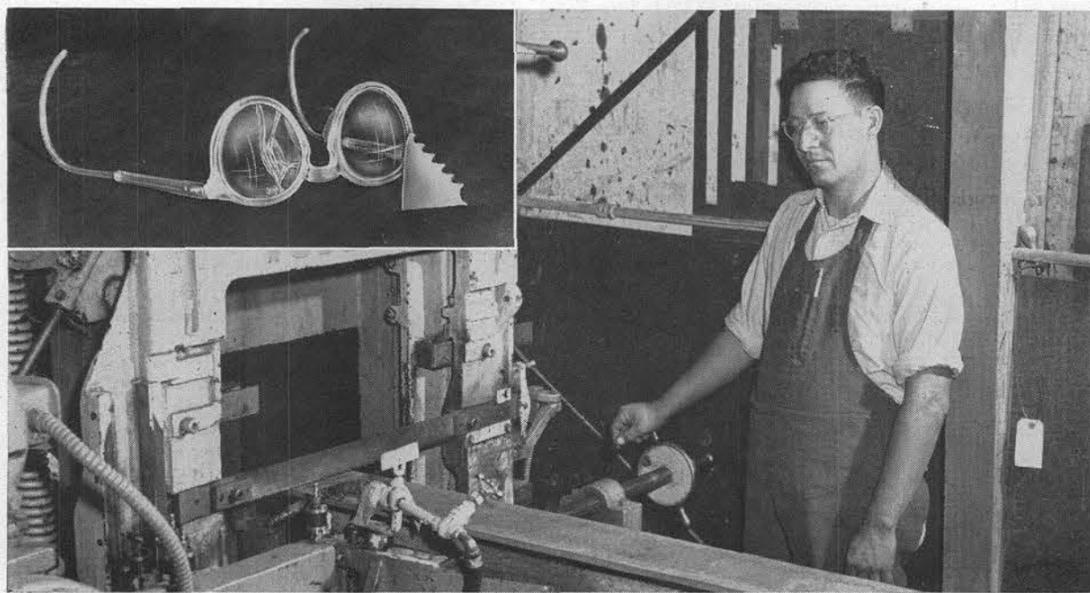

The headlines in the newspapers relate the bigger crimes. Lesser wrong-doings are found back in the classified section. Thousands of crimes involving petty offenses probably go unheeded. The boys who steal from the bank will probably make the headlines. The lesser criminals will find their names on the inside pages.

But what about the thievery which goes unnoticed? The fellow who swipes, piece by piece, a radio transmitter probably only has to live with his own conscience, and maybe his youngsters' conviction that their Dad is a pretty slick operator.

Petty thievery is far from commendable, and is particularly distasteful when government property is stolen — and this government-owned material is from a war plant. One case, two cases or three instances of pilferage may not seriously impair the function of a plant, but wholesale removal of small parts and small tools in lunch pails and pockets may soon shut down a section, division or even a department.

The willingness of otherwise honest Americans to steal from their Uncle Sam is good evidence of the slipping morality of some of our citizens. It is well understood why the voices of indignation are being heard every day.

Too many Americans have changed their standards in judgment concerning right and wrong.

This Could Have Happened

Andres Romero, 2121-2, lost his left eye recently when the blade shattered on a power hacksaw he was operating. A jagged piece of steel pierced his eye and he was rushed to the hospital immediately. Andres will lose the sight of that eye, but doctors say a glass eye may take its place.

Safety Glasses Avert Tragedy

THIS ISN'T TRUE, but it might have been. In the picture on the left Andres stands beside the machine which almost cost him his sight, if not his life. The blade did shatter and but for safety spectacle goggles a near miss would have been a tragedy. In the inset are the glasses that averted injury and the jagged piece of steel that struck full on the lens. The tempered, hardened glass is tested to resist shattering on impact. In Andres' case it cracked but didn't break.

Andres works in a goggle area. He wears goggles. He still has his sight.

After climbing to the south peak of the Sandias without use of a trail they saw a picnic area where food, rest and family should have been waiting, but no! — it was Cole Springs rather than their destination, Cienega Canyon. They thumbed a ride to Tilton Store, then hiked another mile and a half to their rendezvous with their anxious wives in the Cienega Canyon picnic area.

And A Good Time Was Had By All

WHITE SANDS SUN was enjoyed by Elizabeth C. White, 2120, and her husband this summer.

Summer Fun

On Vacation

STRANDED IN A FLOOD was a once-in-a-lifetime experience for Don DeSelm, son of C. H. DeSelm, 1280. Don stands beside a plane which was taking off sick passengers while the El Capitan was flood-bound in the Kansas flood this summer.

IT WAS ALMOST TRAIN TIME at the Union Station in Los Angeles and Frieda Salazar, 1210, posed for this picture. In a few more minutes she was off on another phase of her summer vacation.

A Thrift Shop Purchase Puts the Money Where it Does the Most Good

Some day when you want a "gimmick" but not a store in the city has one, you can try the Sandia Base Thrift Shop located at Second and G Streets. There is no guarantee that the size and color of the "whatsis" you want will be in stock, but the past experiences of many satisfied customers indicate your chances will be good.

What, Who, Why

Now what's going on when you get into this Thrift Shop? Who runs it? Who profits from it? Why is it there? All of these perfectly logical questions may run through your mind and they deserve an answer.

Let's say you find the particular "thing-a-m'bob" you seek and you buy it. Your dollar goes into the cash drawer. Most of it will eventually go to the person who left the item to be sold. Ten per cent stays with the Thrift Shop. In this business, more often than not, the customer is also the supplier.

However, a part of your dollar stays with the Thrift Shop and finds its way into the welfare fund of the Sandia Base Women's Club—members of which are owners, operators and active customers of the shop. None of it goes for salaries, rent, upkeep, depreciation or stock. The overhead in this business just isn't.

Steady Outgo

So far we have traced the money you spent and a portion of it is in the Welfare Fund. Like all such funds, there is a steady outgo as well as an income. The money goes out of the cash box and into many varied functions on the Base.

With little or no fanfare a base nursery has been financed with help from the Welfare Fund. Now the nursery is self-supporting.

The Junior Junction Club, the place where the teenagers can jump and jive, is assisted by the money you spent. The Base Chaplains get part of your dollar and the Scouts also benefit from your money. If there are any emergencies for a family on the Base your money may help them bridge the critical period.

Everyone is now satisfied. The seller, the Thrift Shop, the nursery, teenagers, chaplains, scouts, and the folks who were in trouble—all have been aided by your purchase. You—you're happy because you couldn't find the "whatsit" anywhere until you came to the Women's Club Thrift Shop.

That's Not All

Mrs. W. O. McCord, wife of Bill McCord, 1290, is one of the managers of the Thrift Shop for the Women's Club. The members of the club do more for your community in addition to running the shop.

Gloria Brodsky, 1121, is chairman of the hospitality committee and makes about 150 personal calls a month to the houses of newcomers.

Zola Smith, wife of F. B. Smith, 3000, is recording secretary and Jewell Erickson, wife of K. W. Erickson, 1150, is first vice president of the Women's Club. Rose Jean Hinsdale, wife of J. G. Hinsdale, 3151, is editor of the club newsletter "La Revista." Mary Kate Hopkins, wife of L. A. Hopkins, 1270, is liaison officer.

These are only a few of the wives of Corporation employees who are finding their chance to serve in the Sandia Base Women's Club.

MUSIC LOVER, Don McMillin, 2224, was pictured with Don Grimes band in Dayton, Ohio, this summer. Don, who is on the right, was present to hear his brother perform with the band.

OUT IN CALIFORNIA David Watt, 2712, visited Yosemite National Park and posed with a tree for posterity. Dave was in Yosemite in August.

A COOL MOUNTAIN STREAM at Berthoud Pass in Colorado was examined last August by Jackie Hecker, 1210, and her son, Randy.

THE PAINTED DESERT makes a perfect background for a picture of Bessie Passomre, 3153. Bessie visited the area while vacationing this summer.

WILD LIFE BENEFITED when Carol Ann Lenander visited Rocky Mountain National Park this summer. Carol Ann is the 3-year-old daughter of H. E. Lenander, 1630.

HIGH IN THE SANDIAS, Ted Alexander, 4231, was pictured with his dog. You can drive far from Albuquerque in a day, but there will be few more beautiful sights than the Rio Grande valley from an altitude of about 11,000 feet.

Radio Venture for Two Sandia Wives Came About by a Combination of Greek Mythology and Natural Talent

Fifteen minutes isn't very long, but it surely does stretch out when you have to write and present a quarter hour radio program five days a week. But these broadcasts hold no terrors for Jewell Erickson and Ricci Bush who have their own daily program on Radio Station KVER in Albuquerque.

It appears that the whole thing started several thousand years ago in Greece, at least that is what our mythology claims. Pandora did the forbidden and opened the box. She later closed it, according to the tale, but only after the world's evils escaped. Only "Hope" remained a captive. Now "Pandora's Box" is opened daily by the two women and hope is brought to the harried, over-worked and often neglected housewife.

Easy Listening

Jewell and Ricci, who are the wives of Ken Erickson, 1150, and A. P. Bush, 1122, do their errands of mercy, with the help of Pandora, in a calm, easy manner which results in a pleasant program, happily free from pressure, artificiality and fluff. It looks easy, it is easy to listen to and easy to like, but we'll bet our bottom dollar they work hard at their jobs.

In 1946 Ricci Bush walked into a Dayton, Ohio, radio station and asked for a job. The news editor had quit the same day so she found herself hired. In a short time her assignment included the duties of sports editor. The day she added up the hits, runs, and errors of the major league teams and reported the totals as the final scores, she learned she had a big group of listeners. The next day she was back on the news desk.

Ricci has another hobby which comes in handy in preparing and presenting the program. She has been active in the Little Theatre group on Sandia Base. She was one of the founders of the back-to-the-stage movement here. Her part of the broadcast includes dramatics, book reviews and personality sketches.

Jewell Handles Fashions

Jewell Erickson has dabbled in interior decorating most of her life and during her college years studied the art intensively at the University of Texas. She also took graduate courses in interior decorating while her husband was working for his Ph.D. degree at the University. Jewell developed a fondness for radio after several appearances on the air doing book reviews and participating in panel discussions. Jewell's department is fashions, interior decorating and food.

Two homes have to be maintained and both women are busy with other civic activities in Albuquerque and on the Base.

It all brings to mind the opinion that if you want something done right get a busy woman to do it.

Virginia Sings With Horace Heidt Show

Out of 120 local people who auditioned for Horace Heidt's concert program held last Sunday night, only three were selected to appear on the show. One of those three was Virginia Bollen, a lovely young singer who works here in 3221.

Virginia has been taking vocal lessons for the past three years and a friend, who heard her sing, read about the auditioning in the newspapers and urged Virginia to try out.

A classical and semi-classical singer, Virginia sang "Pale Hands I Love" and "One Fine Day" at the audition before Heidt's talent scouts. The two-and-a-half-hour concert on which Virginia appeared followed Heidt's weekly Original Youth Opportunity Show which was broadcast over a national network.

Virginia came to Sandia in 1948. She is the wife of Master Sergeant George Bollen who is stationed on the Base.

AH, HAPPY HALLOWE'EN! Lamona Martin, 2114, and The Wise Old Owl remind us that the day when the ghosts appear will be with us soon. Who worries about hob-goblins? Not Lamona and the Wise One.

Coronado Club Program

Goblins, witches, ghosts and vampires will gather tomorrow night for a shrieking good time at the Coronado Club Hallowe'en costume party.

Music for this eerie occasion will be provided by Don Lesman and his orchestra. The party will feature the usual Hallowe'en high jinks plus a few surprises. Admission is free to Club members and fifty cents to guests. The hootin' and hollerin' will last from 9 to 1. Sounds like a wail of an evening.

The skeletons will be back in the closet in time for the monthly buffet dinner-dance Sunday night. Fine food will be on hand from 5 to 7:30 and the dancing will last from 6 to 10. Johnny Laughlin and his orchestra will perform. Reservations are practically a must for this affair. The cost will be $1.75 per Club member and $2.25 per guest.

It will be turnabout next Friday night at the big Sadie Hawkins square dance. The gals will do the calling and the fellers will wear corsages made by their wimmin. In addition, a style show will be held by two Albuquerque shops featuring men and women's clothing.

Stompin' music will be provided by the Duke City Cowboys and special refreshments have been promised. All members of the Coronado Club and their guests have been invited whether or not they're square dancers. The only charge will be 50 cents for guests.

The next evening, Saturday, November 3, the Army Corps of Engineers will be hosts at a dance in the Coronado Club. Music will be by Happy Andrews and his orchestra.

Sandia hunters talk the season over and then reach decision

A License is the First Thing You Need—Then a Gun and Ammunition

"You need 10-inch leather boots," said Whitey Trautman, "otherwise you'll be picking stickers out of your ankles every time you step in some brush."

Frank Disagrees

"Well now, I've been wearing this same type of shoe on hunting trips for years and I've had no trouble," replied Frank Dain, holding up a foot encased in heavy leather brogans.

"I'll bet you wear canvas duck pants that the stickers can't get through," put in Jim Hipskind.

"I do not," said Frank indignantly, "you know as well as I, Jim, that canvas clothes are just plain too noisy. Brush against a tree with the stuff and you scare game all around you."

"That's right," Frank Reeder agreed, "I've had it happen myself."

Hunters Swap Tales

It was one of those long argumentative gab-fests that evolve whenever two or more hunters get together. These four veteran hunters were sitting around the Coronado Club lobby swapping stories. The bear season had been open since September 15 and the deer season was due to open November 10. Frank Dain, 2123, had already been on a special antelope hunt. We listened for a while and then began to ask some questions of our own.

"You've all been hunting since you were kids," we interrupted, "what would you say the well dressed hunter should wear in New Mexico, and how much would it cost?"

Right away they started hemming and hawing.

"That depends on the weather; it's cold in the mountains and hot on the desert. It's cold in the morning and hot in the afternoon. You really have to be prepared for both," said Whitey Trautman, 2124.

"If you put on a jacket in the morning and get hot in the afternoon, you can always hang it on a tree and pick it up on your way back," Jim Hipskind, 2124, suggested.

One Man's Opinion

"That's all beside the point," Frank Reeder, 2122, broke in, "the most important thing a well-dressed hunter should wear is a rifle and the best rifle is a 30-06 or a 270."

Frank Dain sat up, "Now wait a minute, let's say they're the most popular rifles, not the best. You go saying any one rifle is the best and you'll have hunters all over the country on your neck."

"All right, all right, call them the most popular then," Frank Reeder laughed, "but the point I wanted to make was that you can get a good 30-06 or 270 for about $85. It's the first and most important thing a hunter should buy."

"Wrong," said Whitey, "the first and most important thing a hunter should buy is a license. The fishing season ends this month so the smartest thing to do would be to buy a $4 big game license instead of the $7 general hunting and fishing license. Of course, you've got to be a New Mexico resident for at least six months or they'll cost a lot more."

Jim Gets Impatient

"You boys are taking a long time to list the things a man needs on a hunting trip," Jim said impatiently. "How about a two-and-a-half power rifle scope for $60 and a box of 20 shells for $4."

"Don't forget those 10-inch boots. The Chippewa moccasin type runs about $16," Whitey said.

"And a light Woolrich red shirt for $12," added Frank Dain.

"You can get a good pair of levis for $5," said Jim.

"Water's doggone important on any trip in this country," Frank Reeder said. "I carry a five-gallon water can that cost me $3 and a canteen I got for 20 cents in a war surplus store."

Whitey suggested binoculars and they all argued about them for a while, finally agreeing on 8x30 or 7x30 power lens costing somewhere around $50.

Camping Equipment, Too

Jim leaned forward, "Hey, we

A HUNTER'S HOME ON WHEELS has been built by Frank Reeder. He started out almost a year ago with a "beat-up" old school bus and ended with this modern, practically self-sufficient hunter's delight. It has room to sleep three—two in a double decker bunk and one on an air mattress on the floor. There is a stove fueled by butane gas tanks, a collapsible table, storage lockers, a radio to pick up weather reports and many other features. Those who want to go hunting with Frank will have to get in line.

better take into account the camping supplies you'd need on a hunting trip. I've got a three-man umbrella tent that's worth $35."

"That's right, and a Coleman two-burner gas stove is about $9," said Whitey. "A Coleman single mantle lantern is about the same price."

"You'll pay $16 for a sleeping bag and $7 for an air mattress," Frank Dain reported.

Whitey had been searching

HIS LAST BULLET bagged this fine buck antelope on a special hunt recently. Frank Dain heads for home and some succulent antelope steaks.

through his pockets. Now he came up with a small clasp knife. He waved it in front of the others.

"Here's something that's a must on any hunting trip. See this little blade? That's what gutted the bear Jim and I killed a couple of weeks ago. A knife like this is better than any of your fancy hunting knives, right Jim?"

"Right," Jim answered, "and a long handled scout axe is better than a hatchet. Axe and clasp knife together will run about $6, I guess."

There was a pause as they all tried to think of something else a hunter would need, then Frank Dain looked up.

"I'll give you a good tip. Bring along some cheesecloth to keep the blow flies off the deer after you've killed it."

They couldn't think of anything else right away, so we added up what they'd already suggested and it came to around $320—the price of outfitting the well dressed hunter.

$320 Hunter

"That's about right," said Frank Reeder, "but keep in mind that most hunters build up to a full set of gear like that slowly. They usually start off with just a gun, some shells and a license. The rest comes later."

To these men, like many other hunters at Sandia, hunting is more than a hobby or sport. It's a definite part of their lives. They each have a small arsenal of rifles, shotguns and pistols. Frank Reeder has outfitted the inside of his panel truck with beds and a place for his hunting supplies. Jim has a station wagon he uses on hunting trips and Frank Dain takes his bounces in a jeep, bought with hunting in mind.

Yet for all their eagerness for the hunting season to roll around, once they're out in the field these men never shoot unless they know precisely what they're aiming at.

"Too many people are killed each year by careless hunters," they say, "besides it may be your last bullet."

AROUND THE DEPARTMENTS

The big problem in the Bill Jenkins household today is where to hang the antelope head Bill shot recently on his first antelope hunt. Don Jenkins, 3152-1, (no relation) went along with Bill and he says it was an amazing shot. Bill, who heads 2244, bagged his buck with a 400-yard shot as the animal was racing almost directly away from him. He used a 303 British Enfield rifle with scope.

Hearty congratulations are in order to Bill Guntrum, 1242, and Mrs. Guntrum on the birth of a seven-pound son. Bill refused to name him Junior.

Pete Meigs, 1714, division supervisor, has lost half of his family for about a week. His wife and daughter have gone to Kansas to visit relatives leaving Pete and his son home in Albuquerque.

At the 4140 departmental picnic Sunday, Oct. 14, Glenn Shaffer and his four-place Stinson Voyager took several of the employees and their families for an airplane ride over the City. The view of Albuquerque at night made an appropriate spectacle for those who took their first airplane ride.

Genial host Art Coyne, 1911, has issued invitations for a patio party. Where? At A. Perkins' home at 504 South Montclair, of course. The occasion is the initiation of Perk's new barbecue pit. Perk, who also is in 1911, says he's going to let Art throw another party at his house in the spring.

Bob Hopper, 2130 department manager, is home from a vacation in "God's country," Mississippi. While there he ate catfish and shrimp, fished and visited his Alma Mater, Mississippi State.

Peggy Haner, 1530, is spending a week's vacation in California. She was maid of honor in the wedding of Nancy Pringle, former University of New Mexico student, and Jack Willis, son of Dolly Willis, 4131-1, which was in San Francisco.

Congratulations to M. O. Jones, 1531, and his wife on the birth of a daughter, Ruth Ann.

"HEY, MISTER, CAN WE SEE SOME OF YOUR SECRET WEAPONS?"

Fishing With Bow Subject of Talk By Sandia Man

A fishing reel with a built in flashlight will be demonstrated by its inventor, Edward J. Kobiela, 1260, as part of a talk he will give on carp shooting tonight at a meeting of the New Mexico Field Archers Association at 8 p. m. at the Albuquerque Y. W. C. A.

Other special equipment designed by the Sandia archer will also be used to illustrate the talk.

"Lost Wilderness," a movie made by the famous archer, Howard Hill, will be featured tonight at the meeting. In addition, a film on "Japanese Archery" and a film entitled "Bows and Arrows," from the New Mexico Game Commission which is about animal life in New Mexico, will be shown.

The local archers, including several Corporation employees who are members of the group, will display their archery tackle.

Dr. C. N. Hickman, 1270, a technical advisor to the Association, has been instrumental in organizing the Association to help the Y. W. C. A. start a beginners class in archery to be held on Sunday afternoons. Those interested in instruction may contact him or Miss Ethlyn Crum at the Y. W. C. A.
