Mountain Climbers Aim For Lake Peak

High up above the Santa Fe ski area, 12,380 feet to be exact, is a spot called Lake Peak. That's where climbers in the New Mexico Mountain Club are headed this Sunday.

Club members are meeting early Sunday morning, at 7 a. m., at Robinson Park, 8th and Central. For details call Doris Ehret, 5132, at Alb. 2-4157.

New Engineers Are Among Nation's Best

Selected Grads Are Proud To Be Picked For Jobs at Sandia Lab

In the past 12 months nearly 100 young engineers, just graduated from college, have joined Sandia Corporation to start their career in the Atomic Energy Program. They are now working on the technical staffs of the Laboratory with the older engineers of more experience. Some of these new graduates could possibly be pivotal men of the atomic program in the years to come.

Composite Picture

Young Mr. Engineer, Class of '53, who has come to Sandia may be described, in composite, thus: he is perhaps 22 years old, he has a deceptively youthful appearance, but in his head is knowledge gleaned in four or five years of hard study in the country's best engineering colleges.

He ranked in the upper scholastic levels of his class, and though electrical or mechanical engineering is his first love he has other interests which have been exhibited by his participation in extracurricular activities in college.

Visits Sandia

Our new engineers have been carefully selected. Only a fraction of the 2034 engineering students interviewed by Sandia Corporation recruiting teams at 92 colleges were invited to Sandia for further interviews.

While here they talked with our engineers and scientists and learned what could be told about the company in "bridging the gap between laboratory development work and the manufacturing operations on atomic weapons."

Industry Needs Many

After finding out all they could about Sandia before being "Q" cleared, a high percentage of the men offered jobs at Sandia accept, even though the top engineering students have many offers of jobs throughout the country. An estimated 22,500 men and women received engineering degrees from accredited schools in the country this spring, and industry says it needs many more than this to fill current vacancies.

Some graduates have special fields of interest which are not included in our work here. But the word has spread that Sandia is discriminating in its choice of employees, and the young engineer who receives a Sandia job offer may well be proud to qualify.

John Haase Speaks

Since January 1 of this year 55 per cent of the new graduates who have been offered jobs at Sandia have accepted.

Why? Let John Haase, 5415, Northwestern University Engineering Class of '53, tell you.

"The future looks good to me here. I like the people, the work, the West, the climate. I liked Sandia from the very first."

Employees' Son Helps In Search for Lost Pacific Airliner

Bruce Butler, son of Gertrude and Charles Butler, was aboard one of the Navy rescue ships assigned to explore the Pacific ocean area near Wake Island after a transoceanic airliner plunged its 58 occupants to death July 11. Bruce, a communications man in the Navy's radio room aboard his ship, was kept busy during the extensive search for possible survivors.

The Sandians' son will be located in Guam. Gertrude works in 2464 and Charles, 3152. Before joining the service Bruce was active in the Sandia Base Radio Club along with his father. He writes that he frequently tunes in on ham stations from the States and the Pacific, and that "those boys from the islands sure put out some wicked signals."

Ted Jorgensen Named to Freight Rate Committee

Ted Jorgensen, 2341, president of the Albuquerque Traffic Club, has been appointed a director to serve on the Intermediate Rate Association, an organization in 11 mountain states to investigate and protect freight rates. Ted is one of the two directors from New Mexico.

Wondrous Things These Vacations

When you have packed the final suitcase, corraled the kids, counted the travelers checks for the last time and are behind the wheel, you will have a few moments to reflect on the glories of that famous American institution—the annual vacation.

We doubt if Ivan from Moscow, Boris from Bucharest or Chang from China will be able to duplicate your wonderful experience of putting cares behind and taking to the open road. Their system doesn't, in all probability, include paid vacations, or even open roads.

While you are seeing the sights of the big city, Old Faithful in Yellowstone, The Grand Canyon in Arizona or the Golden Gate in California some pretty remarkable things are happening which you don't even think about.

The psychologists can go into it at great length, but what they come up with is that while you are "getting away from it all" you are becoming healthier in both mind and body. You are going to be happier when you get back, you are going to do your job better and the world's problems are going to appear much less formidable.

We could mention the danger of auto accidents, poison ivy, snakes, and indigestion from eating in roadside establishments. The trip can easily be ruined by one careless moment or an unavoidable misfortune. But even while the vagaries of vacations are inflicting themselves upon us the benefits of the time away from the day's routine are also working. The change is what rejuvenates us.

It's wise to plan your vacation so that you can leave home base and enjoy the sights of our wonderful country, if only for a short time. But it's best to come back home again. And there lies proof of the statement that some wonderful things happen while we are gone.

the way we heard it . . . . .

Lucky Winners

Registering for free prizes in various promotional campaigns yields scant returns for most of us, but at least two Sandians had their interest revived recently when they were named winners. Geneva Bishop, AEC, won a beautiful new home freezer in a registration sponsored by freezer dealers, and Bill Kingsley, 3161, received a basket of groceries at the opening of a supermarket.

Appropriate Dress Rules

Although this is one of the hottest summers in the recollection of Albuquerqueans, patrons of the Coronado Club have been cool and comfortable at all functions. The huge evaporative coolers installed on the roof last summer to supplement the original equipment are responsible. With this in mind an effort is being made to encourage full compliance with dress regulations set forth in the House Rules.

Men are asked to wear jackets at scheduled evening functions such as dances. As an alternative a conventional shirt and tie may be worn. For special functions dress should be appropriate to the occasion and sportswear is permitted in the downstairs area for bowling, table tennis, etc.

The Board points out that it is in the interest of the membership to maintain a standard of dress and decorum appropriate for a club of high calibre such as ours.

W. A. Gardner, 1283, is fishing in Colorado during his summer holiday, and D. E. Kosanda, 1281, is vacationing in Iowa and Minnesota. W. L. Morehouse, 1283, is on military leave for a short time, assigned to San Diego.

What's Cooking

The Chicken Cook Book caused quite a flurry when it hit the booklet racks last week. Supplies of the booklet disappeared faster than they could be replenished and Employee Services had dozens of calls for more. Since we have four men for every woman on Corporation rolls it would seem that interest in the booklet was not confined to the fair sex. Anyone who missed getting a copy may call ext. 26150.

Mufti to Khaki, Temporari

Quite a few Sandians are sweating it out on the firing line, working out map and compass problems, and refreshing their memories of military tactics this month as they take part in summer camp training with various reserve and National Guard units. The lads are wondering why such training is always given at Ft. Bliss, Camp Hood, Tex., and Camp Polk, La., instead of some nice cool spot up north.

"Swap Artists Camp"

Boy Scout David Meister, son of Jack Meister, 2442, was at the Boy Scout Jamboree camp grounds in California where some of the Scouts recently bargained with Vice-President Nixon. The Vice-President reported he thought he got the best of the swap—autographs for snakeskins. Young David probably became an accomplished trader.

Gene Buell, 5132, is seriously considering offering a reward for the apprehension of persons who are releasing cats in his neighborhood. Gene recently rounded up 10 stray felines and turned them over to the Albuquerque Animal Shelter.

Mary Alice Fitzsimmons, 1925-1, is visiting her husband in Socorro where he's assigned with his work in the Geological Survey.

Norma Bird, 1923, and her mother will visit relatives in Oklahoma; Carlton A. Scott, 1923, is vacationing in Colorado Springs and Richard E. Burnham, 1922, is spending his holiday at Pine River in Colorado.

Janet C. Currie, 4222 (5241), spent a three-week vacation on the west coast; Esther V. Donaldson, 5241-3, and her sister and a girl friend enjoyed an extensive trip to the east; the R. L. Hendrick (5242) family spent three weeks in California, Oregon and Washington, and Emily Young, 5242, visited relatives and friends in Missouri.

Albert Abergo, 2223, recently visited in New York City where his mother was critically ill. She is now much improved and he's returned to his job. A vacationer from 2223 recently was Gilbert Atencio who visited in the northern part of the state.

Three lucky girls from AEC who won appliances recently were Geneva Bishop, awarded a home freezer in a city-wide merchants' drawing, Joan Evans, a large television set from an oil dealer, and Kay Skees, who "bingoed" for a toaster at the Coronado Club.

Sandians enjoying recent vacations include Josephine Lobato, 2222, to Santa Fe; Emily Coris, 2224, to Milwaukee and Ironwood, Mich.; Mabel Otero, 2224, Las Vegas, Nev., and California; Don Emrick, 2225, to Wabash, Ind., with his family; Don Harrison, at home in Albuquerque; Marvie McFee, 2221, fishing in Colorado and visits to Denver; Jerry Pierce, working on his stock car at home; Rudy Vinovich, 2221, to a ranch near Lordsburg, N.M., and Denver, also participating in the southwest bowling tournaments here and in the Colorado capital; Jerry Hines, 2221, fishing at Pine River Dam and visits to Silverton and Ouray, Colo.; and Mary Ann Chavez, two weeks in Los Angeles.

Now at home at 1209 Columbia St. NE are Bill Freyermuth, 2533-1, and his bride after their wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco. Mrs. Freyermuth, the former Donna Ray Brattland of Waukegan, Ill., taught in the Los Alamos schools for two years. The couple was married June 27.

Leaving tomorrow for a vacation at Red River are Gertrude Butler, 2464, and her husband, Charles, 3152; Martha Brown, 3152, vacationed in Illinois. Dolores Kaspar, 4222, and her husband, Charlie, 3153, plan to spend their vacations at home with their family, R. B. Powell, 3150, returned last week from a two-week holiday in San Francisco.

When Lois Pittman, 3153, with her husband and parents took off for a fishing trip to Taos recently they didn't reckon with the seasonal rains that were so refreshing, but so ruinous to the fishing expedition! And add to summer discomforts: Betty Meadow, 3153, had a wonderful tour of the Carlsbad Caverns recently, but remained too long on the beach near there and came home with a painful sunburn. Pat Johnson, 3152, and her husband are also recent Cavern visitors.

Ova Royal, AEC, is now living in her new home at 8024 Hannett Ave. NE.

AEC's Coy Dickins, who is on a leave of absence, and her husband are visiting at her family home in Arkansas.

Vacationers from 2234 include Henry Flowers, spending three weeks visiting relatives in Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa; Fred Brown, to Flint, Mich., and Claude Baca, relaxing at home.

Around the Departments

Sandians on vacation recently included D. E. Ness, 2335-2, spending his time in and around Albuquerque, T. J. Meloche, 2331-1, vacationed at home with side trips to Carlsbad and El Paso and Charles Ulibarri, 2341-1, spent his summer holiday in Jemez Springs.

Renee Foster, 2461-2, and her husband, John, 2533-2, are home from a vacation trip to Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania, Virginia and Ohio; Gladys Boren, 2461-2, spent her vacation at home, as did Mel Berg, 2461. Katherine McCarthy, 2461-2, joined her family for a cool Colorado visit.

Ralph Wilson, 1261, and his family will return next week from a "lost-in-the-wilds" vacation in Colorado where they have a mountain cabin; "Mac" Spivey, 1261, and Bob Fogle, 5423, took a fishing jaunt along the Jemez River this month, and Carroll Osborne, 1261, is back from a month's stay in Wichita, Kans. Joe Dawson, 1262, is on vacation now, just "getting away from it all," he says but not saying where.

News from 2231: Frank D. Chavez' new residence is located at 7916 Bellamah Ave. NE; Art Smith attended a golf tournament at Amarillo recently; Chet Weaver's vacation was spent in Nebraska and Eulita North and her family took a leisurely trip to California; Wilma Archbold's new home is located at 1401 Rhode Island St. NE.

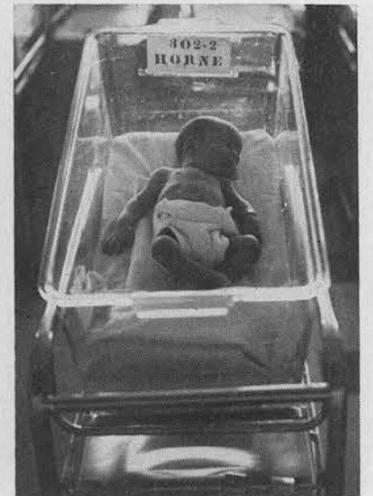

Vacationers from 2232 were Joe M. Benevidez and family to fish at Monument Lake, Colo.; Chris Hensley and his family went to Texas and Nevada and California on their summer holiday; the Bennie Padillas went to California to visit friends and relatives and the Bill Shobers took an extended trip to Wisconsin.

Arthur Bullhorse, 1532, took his family to visit his former home in South Dakota recently; the family traveled through Yellowstone Park and Cheyenne, Wyo., on their way to Rapid City and then stopped in Denver and Colorado Springs on the return trip.

Herman Williams, 5131, took his family to Ohio for a vacation, and while Herman was fishing along the Miami River near Waynesville, he fell into the water, but saved the fish, he reports; Dick Hildner, 5132, John Leslie, Ben Evans and Bill Thomas, all of 1632, hiked from Cowles to Lake Catherine, N.M., for an overnight trip recently and Mountain Climber Leslie went to the top of Santa Fe Baldy all alone during the outing.

The Robert L. Books have moved into their attractive valley home at 1440 Freeman Ave. NW. Bob works in AEC.

Elmo Whitmore, 2235, returned to Sharon, Pa., to visit and fish during his recent vacation, and Ray Beale, also 2235, went to Las Vegas and El Paso. Don Schraeder, 2235, spent one week at military camp in Casper, Wyo., stopping at Yellowstone National Park, then Red River for a fishing spree, before coming home. Dave Gonzales and Fred Callahan, both 2235, say they spent "domestic" vacations around their yards and homes. Carl Eden, 2235, spent an exciting week end at the horse races in Raton recently.

INTRODUCING Michael D. Horne, who will celebrate his fourth birthday tomorrow (four weeks, that is). The little patriot was born on the Fourth of July. Mike is the son of George and Patricia Horne. Most Sandians will remember that last year the BULLETIN presented the picture story of George and Pat's marriage. George heads 4133-1 and Pat used to work in 3231. They live on Sandia Base.

F. G. Gabaldon, 2417-2, vacationed in Colorado Springs and Seven Falls and Alfredo Fernandez, 2417-1, spent his holiday fishing at Vadito, N.M. Marion Brown, 2417-1, is the proud owner of a new Jet Hudson, light gray with a cherry-red top.

W. Hughes, 2350, enjoyed a week's tour of the Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, Nev., and places of interest en route. Chenault Davison, 2321, spent two weeks vacationing in Denver and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dave Miller, 1932-1, took two weeks military training at Camp Chaffee, Ark., and John Kinzer, 2335, joined the reserves at Fort Bliss, Texas.

PARTICIPATING IN THE JULY birthday dessert for Organization 2223 last week were these Sandians whose birthdays fall in the month. Cutting the cake was Beverly Flowers, and awaiting their portion were L to R, Al Abergo, Gilbert Atencio, Jim French and Gerald Van Gundy. Cake bakers included Ruth E. Youngberg and Dorothy Washburn and Richard Bowerman. A southwestern motif pleased the celebrants who opened their gifts after the tasty dessert was distributed among them and their co-workers.

ZUNI WOMEN parade in native finery through Gallup during the Indian Inter Tribal Ceremonial which this year is set for August 13-16.

The gathering of thousands of American Indians at Gallup, N. M., for the Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial in August is reportedly the largest event of its kind in the world.

This year the Ceremonial is slated for August 13-16 when the 32nd annual performance of authentic pageantry envelopes the town of Gallup, located 122 miles west of Albuquerque on U. S. Highway 66.

Special Events

In addition to parades, special skilled dances, individual forms of athletics such as wagon races and tugs of war, the Ceremonial highlights native crafts with an exhibit of the Indians' finest work.

The visitor will see prize examples of Navajo weaving, intricate handmade silver and turquoise jewelry, ceramics and leather wear. Among the highlights at Gallup's Exhibit Hall will be the daily sand paintings produced by tribal medicine men.

Lasts Four Days

Here is an up-to-date schedule of the Inter-Tribal Ceremonial as released by the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce:

Opens Thursday night, Aug. 13, with a program; during the following Friday, Saturday and Sunday there is on each day a morning parade, an afternoon program and an evening program.

Except for downtown parades, all Ceremonial programs are held in Lyon Memorial Park, also called Ceremonial Grounds, located in a natural setting among the colorful mesas at the northeastern corner of Gallup, nine blocks from center of the city.

Reservations Advised

Gallup has eleven hotels and 26 motor courts to accommodate the visitors, and rooms in private homes are also available as well as space in dormitories set up in public schools and operated by service groups in the community. Advance reservations are recommended.

The Gallup event is a mecca for camera enthusiasts as picture-taking is permitted and the primitive costumes are spectacles in color.

ARTIST'S MAGIC with a brush and paint takes John Tillman, 2120, and Frank Longyear, 2100, out of the Tech area into a spectacular land of make-believe. The occasion for the picture was the launching of a horseshoe tournament for personnel of Bldg. 840. The reason for moving Mr. Longyear and Mr. Tillman to another location—security. Final results of the tourney will be announced in the SANDIA BULLETIN.

The Inquiring Reporter Asks:

From Your Experience, Would You Say Women Drivers Are As Good As Men Drivers?

Ann Gimble, 3153. I definitely do think that women rate pretty high in good driving. Men are always griping about women drivers — when they see a car where the driver didn't signal, they say "Must be a woman driver." Then they'll turn around and do the very same thing without a single thought. Women are more cautious, too, especially in residential zones.

Ruth Farley, 1923: I think men are every bit as bad as they say women are. From what I've observed, however, I'd say it was the individual, regardless of gender, who is the poor driver. Men are always quick to point out a defect in a woman's driving — for the same thing they simply ignore it in a man. All of these cartoons about women driving make me mad... I have a favorite one, though—it shows a man having crumpled a fender while going into the garage and his wife is standing by with a camera saying "Hold it!"

Dorothy Williams, 1722: Men have too much confidence in themselves. They will take chances when driving where a woman won't and they're not as courteous as women. I think women make better drivers than men do because they're criticized so much they take pains to be careful and courteous. If you ask me, women are just as careful as men on hand signals. Maybe I should add that I've seen a "few" good male drivers!

Ginger Johnson, 2122: Yes, women are good drivers. Men are more reckless, willing to take chances and they're always racing out when the stoplight changes. Men are prone to cut in and out of traffic, so all in all I'd say the girls are much more careful in their driving than men are. Of course if my husband reads this, he'll probably want to shoot me! Oh, another thing, men are involved in more accidents than women, so I guess that proves something.

Sally Langenstein, 5111: It's a matter of the individual and reflects the training he or she has had in good manners and road courtesy. I think women are much maligned for their driving when they don't deserve it — and that irks me. As far as I've observed there is no particular difference between the driving of men or women motorists—it's still strictly a matter of the individual when it comes to proper driving and courtesy.

Gerry Marko, AEC: It's always the old, old, story, this that and the other thing about women drivers. I don't think the girls are given enough credit for their good driving. It's a 50-50 deal for the most part, but I do think women use a lot more judgment than men drivers do. You might say I'm prejudiced FOR women drivers; I certainly do not think they are any worse than men.

What's My Line?

The desk of this Sandian is in a key spot and there's always a lot of activity going on around her. She is a sort of "hub" for her building and is well acquainted with its personnel and their location. Security remains an integral part of her job and she meets hundreds of her fellow workers each week. What's her line? See page 6.

Park 'Em Right - Park 'Em Easily

'Most any shortage of parking Space may be our own fault

Parking woes on Sandia Base these days are considerably less than they were some months ago. With the addition of new parking areas and the improvement of old areas there should be no difficulty today in putting your car to rest. But too often there is. Much of this situation comes from the fact that all of us, being human beings, want to park the car as near to our place of work as possible. Often we could find plenty of room nearby—only a few steps away. The other reason for the apparent shortage of space is careless parking (photo 1). It's hard to pin the blame on one driver (photo 3) but the result is the same—wasted space. Or you can find examples of the opposite extreme (photos 2 and 4) in which crowding of automobiles results in dents, scratches and mars. In extreme cases (photo 4) the driver must wait until one of his parking neighbors moves his car. There just isn't room to open a door and get in. Great expanses of space between cars (photo 3) will save the finish, but savings of room may be accomplished by using good judgment. Use of common sense in parking is economical, thoughtful and just plain good manners.

"The Other Side of the Mountain"

A green wonderland, visited by only a few, spreads across the fertile flanks of the Sandia Mountains. Two Sandians spent a weekend in this lofty paradise recently and here is what they saw.

HIGH IN THE SANDIAS, the mountains rolling away behind them, Ed and Wanita pause to snap a picture of the wilderness surroundings.

Ed and Wanita Jenkins had breakfast in their apartment on the Base one sunny Saturday morning recently and an hour and a half later they were on horseback, riding through the sloping upland meadows of the eastern Sandia Mountains.

Beauty Nearby

Looking at the majestic face of the Sandias from Albuquerque, there are many of us who are unaware of the wealth of scenic beauty that lies on the other side of those great cliffs.

A good part of the mountain is covered by the Cibola National Forest and seldom traveled trails lead through broad aspen forests and high, open glades — all with magnificent views in all directions.

Close To Home

The long sweep of the Manzano Mountains is to the south, the Sangre de Cristos lie blue in the distance northward, cloud-topped Mount Taylor stands high above the western desert with the green swath of the Rio Grande Valley cutting through the dun-colored mesa below.

And it's only 30 minutes from Albuquerque to the beginning of the trail.

A JUTTING LEDGE provides a lookout point for the young couple as they gaze across the wide expanse of forest below them.

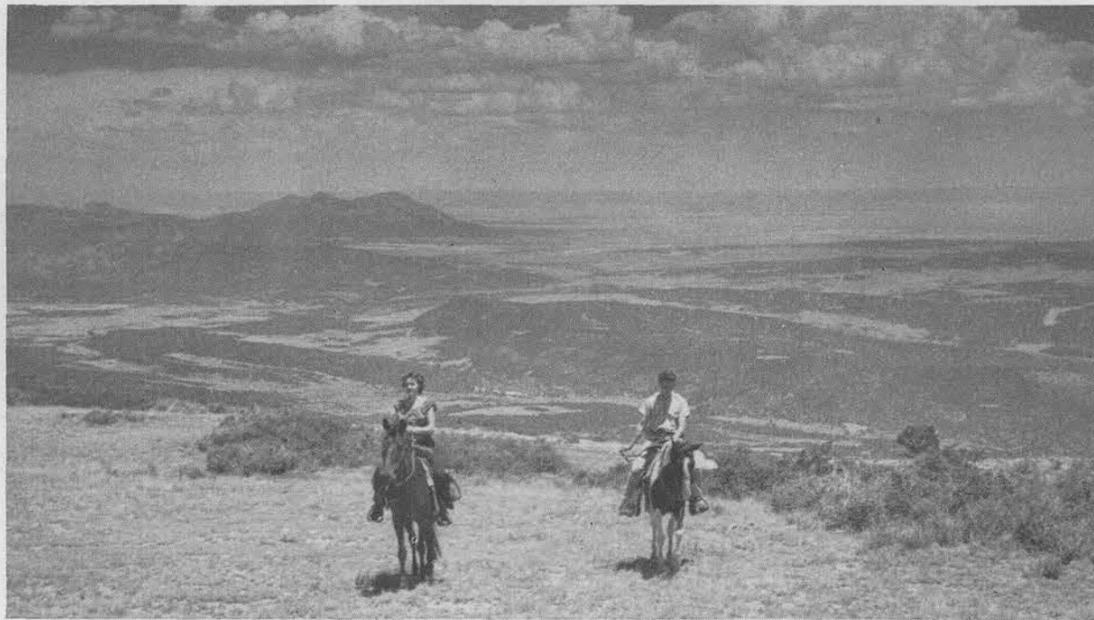

BEFORE STARTING Ed rolls his pack to fit across the back of the saddle.

MOVING OUT Ed and Wanita head for the trail that will take them high up the Sandia Mountains.

A TRAIL MARKER points the way as the couple climbs toward the sun.

A HIGH MOUNTAIN MEADOW, sunny and cool, the couple lies part of the Manzano Mountains with seems on a level with the floating clouds. Behind the broad sweep of the mesa like a sea in the distance.

ATOP A RIDGE, Ed and Wanita ride along framed against a deep blue sky.

CAMPING IN A GLEN of aspen and birch the pair relaxes, tired and happy, in front of their fire.

Ed and Wanita are experienced campers. They're used to the outdoors and they love it. Ed was raised in the little town of Soddy, Tennessee, where he spent his youth fishing the Tennessee lakes and streams and hunting possum, 'coon, and quail accompanied by his father's thoroughbred hounds.

Both Employees

Wanita is a farm girl from another small town, Mendon, Illinois. She and Ed met while both were working here and they were married last year. Ed is in 5212 and Wanita works in 4222 (5421).

The two spend almost every weekend the year 'round up in the state's wilderness areas hunting or fishing, yet this was the first time they'd really penetrated the wonderland on the other side of the Sandias. As Ed puts it in his Tennessee drawl:

Just Around Corner

"We've been covering maybe four, five hundred miles on a weekend just to get to some of the spectacular country around here and now we find some of the finest scenery we've seen in the whole state tucked away right around the corner."

PREPARING SUPPER Wanita is as at home as if she were in her own kitchen.

SUNSET and a short distance from their camp Ed and Wanita stand to watch the last rays of the sun change the forest from green to gold.

THE LONG RIDE IS OVER as they lead their horses back into the corral—the end of a perfect week end.

"If he misbehaves, just call us."

Square Dancers Plan Expanded Activities

Jerry Jercinovic, 1923, has been elected chairman of a committee to represent the Coronado Club square dancers on the Club's entertainment committee.

Other committee members selected are: Louis Steward 1522, Phil Dailey 2336, Ed Frasher 1263, and Bob Lemm 2352.

Twice A Month

Plans call for stepping up the square dance activities to two dances per month with beginner classes to precede the regular dances. The instruction will be given from 7:30 to 9 p. m. with regular square dances from 9 'til midnight. Coffee and doughnuts will be served as refreshments. These dances are free to all members, $1 per guest.

With the limited budget controlling the activities, the committee has planned only one dance for August. At this dance, on Friday the 14th, the beginner and regular dance hours will be in effect.

Doc Rehbeck Calls

Doc Rehbeck, 2544, will be the caller and the Duke City Cowboys will provide the music.

Suggestions for square dance activities are welcomed and may be presented by contacting any of the committee members.

Softball Almost Rained Out; Dodgers Lose Two After Winning Four Straight

Recent rainfalls which proved so welcome to thirsty lawns and water-rationed Albuquerqueans have played havoc with the Sandia Employees Softball Association schedule. A total of nine ball games was washed out in the last two week span.

Biggest disappointment caused by the rain was the postponement of the game between the Braves and the Indians, undefeated rivals for first place in "A" League. The next regular scheduled contest between these two softball giants will be on August 26. If at all possible, however, their postponed game will be replayed prior to that date.

Dodgers Lose Two

The surprising Dodgers, boasting a four game winning streak after losing all their games in the first round, had their record tarnished as they lost two close decisions to the Redlegs and the Phillies. The two losses dropped the Dodgers from first to third place in the "B" League standings. The Cubs, by virtue of their 18-4 triumph over the Redlegs, hold down the first place spot with a four and one record.

Rains Interfere

In other "B" League games the Phillies edged the Senators 18-17 and the Pirates defeated the Senators 16-8.

Activity in "A" League was limited due to the rain. In the only two games recorded, the Cardinals defeated the Browns 10-5 and the Yankees gained a forfeit victory over the White Sox 7-0. The Cardinals victory placed them only 1/2 game behind the league-leading Braves and Indians. All the rained out games are being rescheduled.
